England Golf

England Golf is the governing body for amateur golf in England and is one of the country's largest sports governing bodies, looking after the interests of more than 1,900 golf clubs and 675,000 men, women, boy and girl club members.

England Golf is at the heart of grassroots golf, inspiring people to have a lifelong involvement in the game. Its national Get into golf campaign sets out to inspire people of all ages and backgrounds to take up the game. All Get into golf sessions are run by PGA professionals in a fun and relaxed environment. Equipment is provided so all people have to do is book and turn up on the day in comfortable clothing.

Together with its partners, England Golf offers business support to help golf clubs plan for the future and to grow their business and their membership. England Golf encourages more golfers to become club members and show that golf is an accessible, fun and family-friendly game with many health benefits.

England Golf runs championships and tournaments, including team events, for players of all abilities and ages. It also identifies and develops the country's most talented golfers and supports them through their amateur careers. England Golf: www.Englandgolf.org
